The Little Prince

「小王子的第八行星」創作比賽

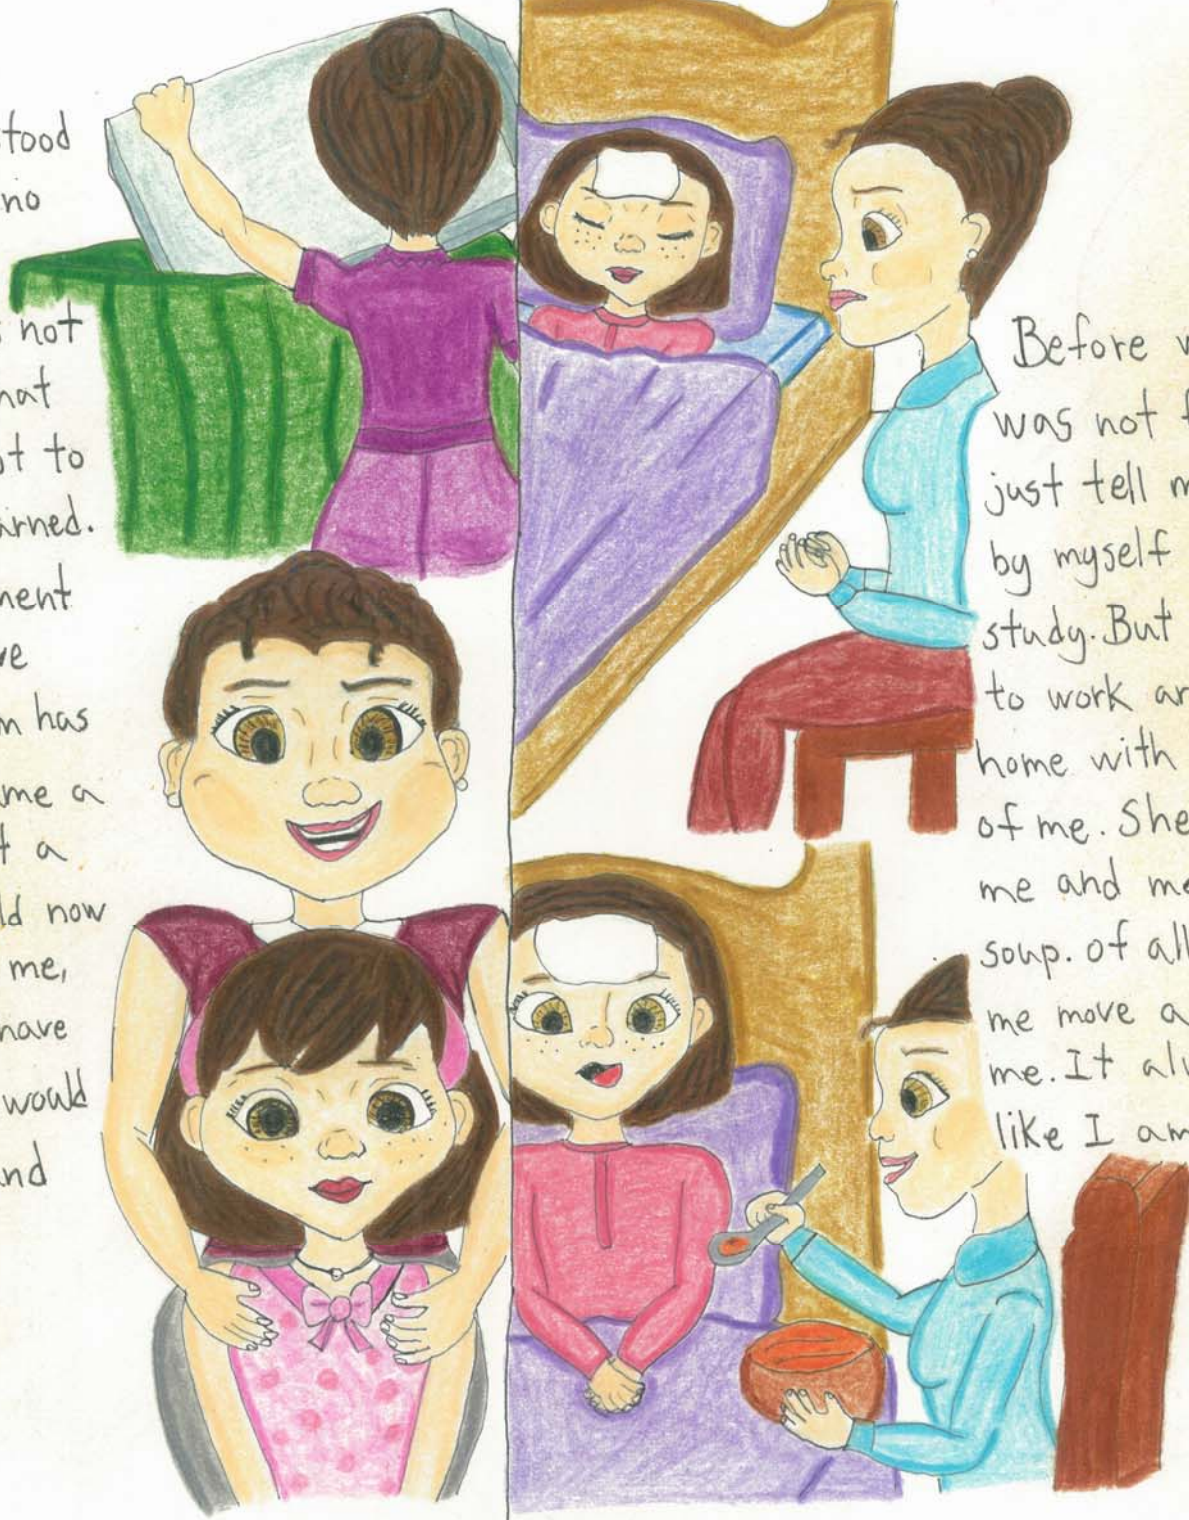

Well I did not forget about the little prince too. The little prince has taught me a lot of things. I could never forget about the things that the little prince has taught me. The story is just so beautiful and heartwarming. I will never forget the day I finally met the little prince and finally got the chance to talk to him. It was definitely a real dream meeting him and being able to talk to him. Even just thinking about it, it makes me so delightful and grateful. Delightful for finally met him and feel grateful for being able to talk to him. At first I really did not want to grow up. Growing up was my fear. I did not want to grow up to become like my mother. Always working and following her life plan. She didn't have time to spend with me. Until I met my neighbour and he showed me his story. He explained to me that growing up was not the problem. Forgetting it was the problem. He taught many things to me and told me things that no one had ever told me before. We became even more close friends than before. I would visit him and chat with him in his house. We would play with each other and sometime he would tell me some wonderful stories that I had not heard before. Being able to be around with him makes me feel really happy and joyful.

My mom finally threw out the life plan board. She understood that the life plan board was no good to keep it anymore. She learned that growing up was not always just about work and that it was to learn things and not to forget the things you had learned. You have to cherish every moment in your life. Since the day we went to the hospital. My mom has changed since then. She became a completely different person, but a good different person. She would now have more time to spend with me, not always keep working and have no time to be with me. She would always try to cheer me up and take good care of him. Always making sure I am safe and sound.

Before when the days I was not feeling well. She would just tell me to see the doctor by myself and try my best to study. But now she would not go to work and would stay at home with me and take care of me. She would look after me and make me my favorite soup. of all time. Not letting me move a muscle, she even fed me. It always makes me feel like I am a little princess.

Nowadays she would even randomly take on holidays and would take me to go on many awesome and adventurous vacations. We would always have the best time of our lives. Even though sometimes there are some things which will go to the way we did not expect. Sometimes we would even fight with each other. But at the end we would always end up forgiving each other and we would always try our best to make things right and for the better. I love my Mother with all my heart.

Without her I seriously do not know where I would be or even how I would be. She means the world to me. I am so thankful for having such a loving and wonderful mother. She is truly my hero. We finally live a life like we always wanted to. A life like nobody else could ever ask for.

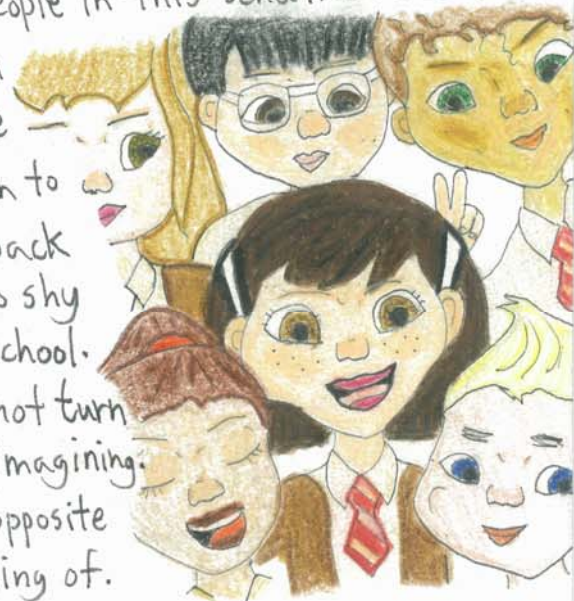

My first day of school was nerve-racking. I felt so nervous and shy. I was not able to introduce myself properly and talk to people properly. My mother could not bring me to school because she had to work early in the morning, but she promised me she would come pick me up after school. And she did.

Some weeks passed by and I started enjoying school. Even though we had to sit there, listen to teachers, do homework and study. School was pretty much a fun place to go to. That is for sure. It is because I found out in this school, there were many cool and awesome people in this school. I have made

Some great new friends in this school. People here were actually pretty kind and fun to be with. When now I look back I feel so stupid. For being too shy and not wanting to go to school. I am so glad that it did not turn out to be like how I was imagining. It turned out to be the opposite way of what I was thinking of.

There were these two friends that even became my best friends. Their names are Violet and Sarah. We three got along pretty quickly and well. Like we have already Known each other for so many years, but we didn't. We became really close with each other and we would do many things together. We would go to school together, eat lunch together and do lots of awesome things together. We would always have each other's back and would be there to cheer each other up. Sometimes they would go to my house and we would have a sleepover party. Just the three of us, we could already destroy this place. I am joking, of course we could not destroy this place. My mom would be so freaking mad at me if that ever happened. It definitely would not happen.

The house would become a bit messy and all but we would always clean it up before my mom came home.

My mom trusts me with leaving us three alone in the house.

She knows we will not do anything too foolish or dangerous.

I mean of course we would not do anything like that. We are not little kids anymore.

We know what is the right thing to do and what is wrong. When my mom comes back from her work.

She would bring us ice-cream to eat.

My friends would be so happy and joyful when they see my mom.

They think my mom is the most coolest mother ever. Even though sometimes she does get on my nerves.

I also think she is a pretty cool mother. My best friends and I would stay up late at night, talk and play with each other. My mom would tell us to go to bed and sleep, but we would just pretend that we were asleep.

After she left, we would continue what we were doing then. They would sleep on my bed with me because I did not want them sleeping on the floor. It is not comfortable and it is cold sleeping on the floor. I even introduced my neighbour to my best friends. They liked him and enjoyed listening to his amazing stories. Sometimes I would also go to their house too, but not as often as they come to my house. I really love being friends with them. They are the most coolest and awesome best friends that I've ever had. I am so happy that I met them. No one could ever ask for a better friend like them.

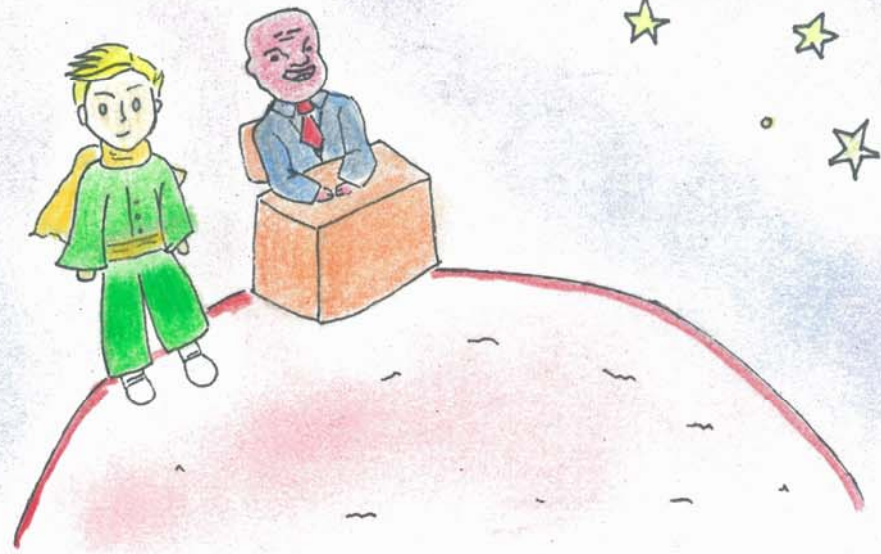

Asteroid B 325 lived the King. The little prince visited him once again. This time the King did not give him reasonable orders. He just sat there in his chair. Wondering things. The little prince asked him why he did not ordered him to do things. He just sat there and smiled at the little prince and welcomed him to sit on his lap. So He did. The King had learned that ordering people to do things was not right. Just because he is the King of this planet but it does not mean he could order people to do the things he wants.

Next the little prince visited Asteroid B 326. There lived the conceited man. The conceited man greeted him and took off his hat. Normally he would only take off his hat if there were people admiring him and applauding. but the little prince was not admiring him nor applauding to him. The little prince was surprised by his actions. so he applauded to him. The conceited man felt so happy and amazed. The little prince was proud of him.

Next he visited Asteroid B 327. And there he was. The drunkard was not drinking this time. He was tossing his collection of bottles and breaking them. The little prince was confused, but happy that he was not drinking anymore. The drunkard looked more happier tossing and breaking them than drinking it.

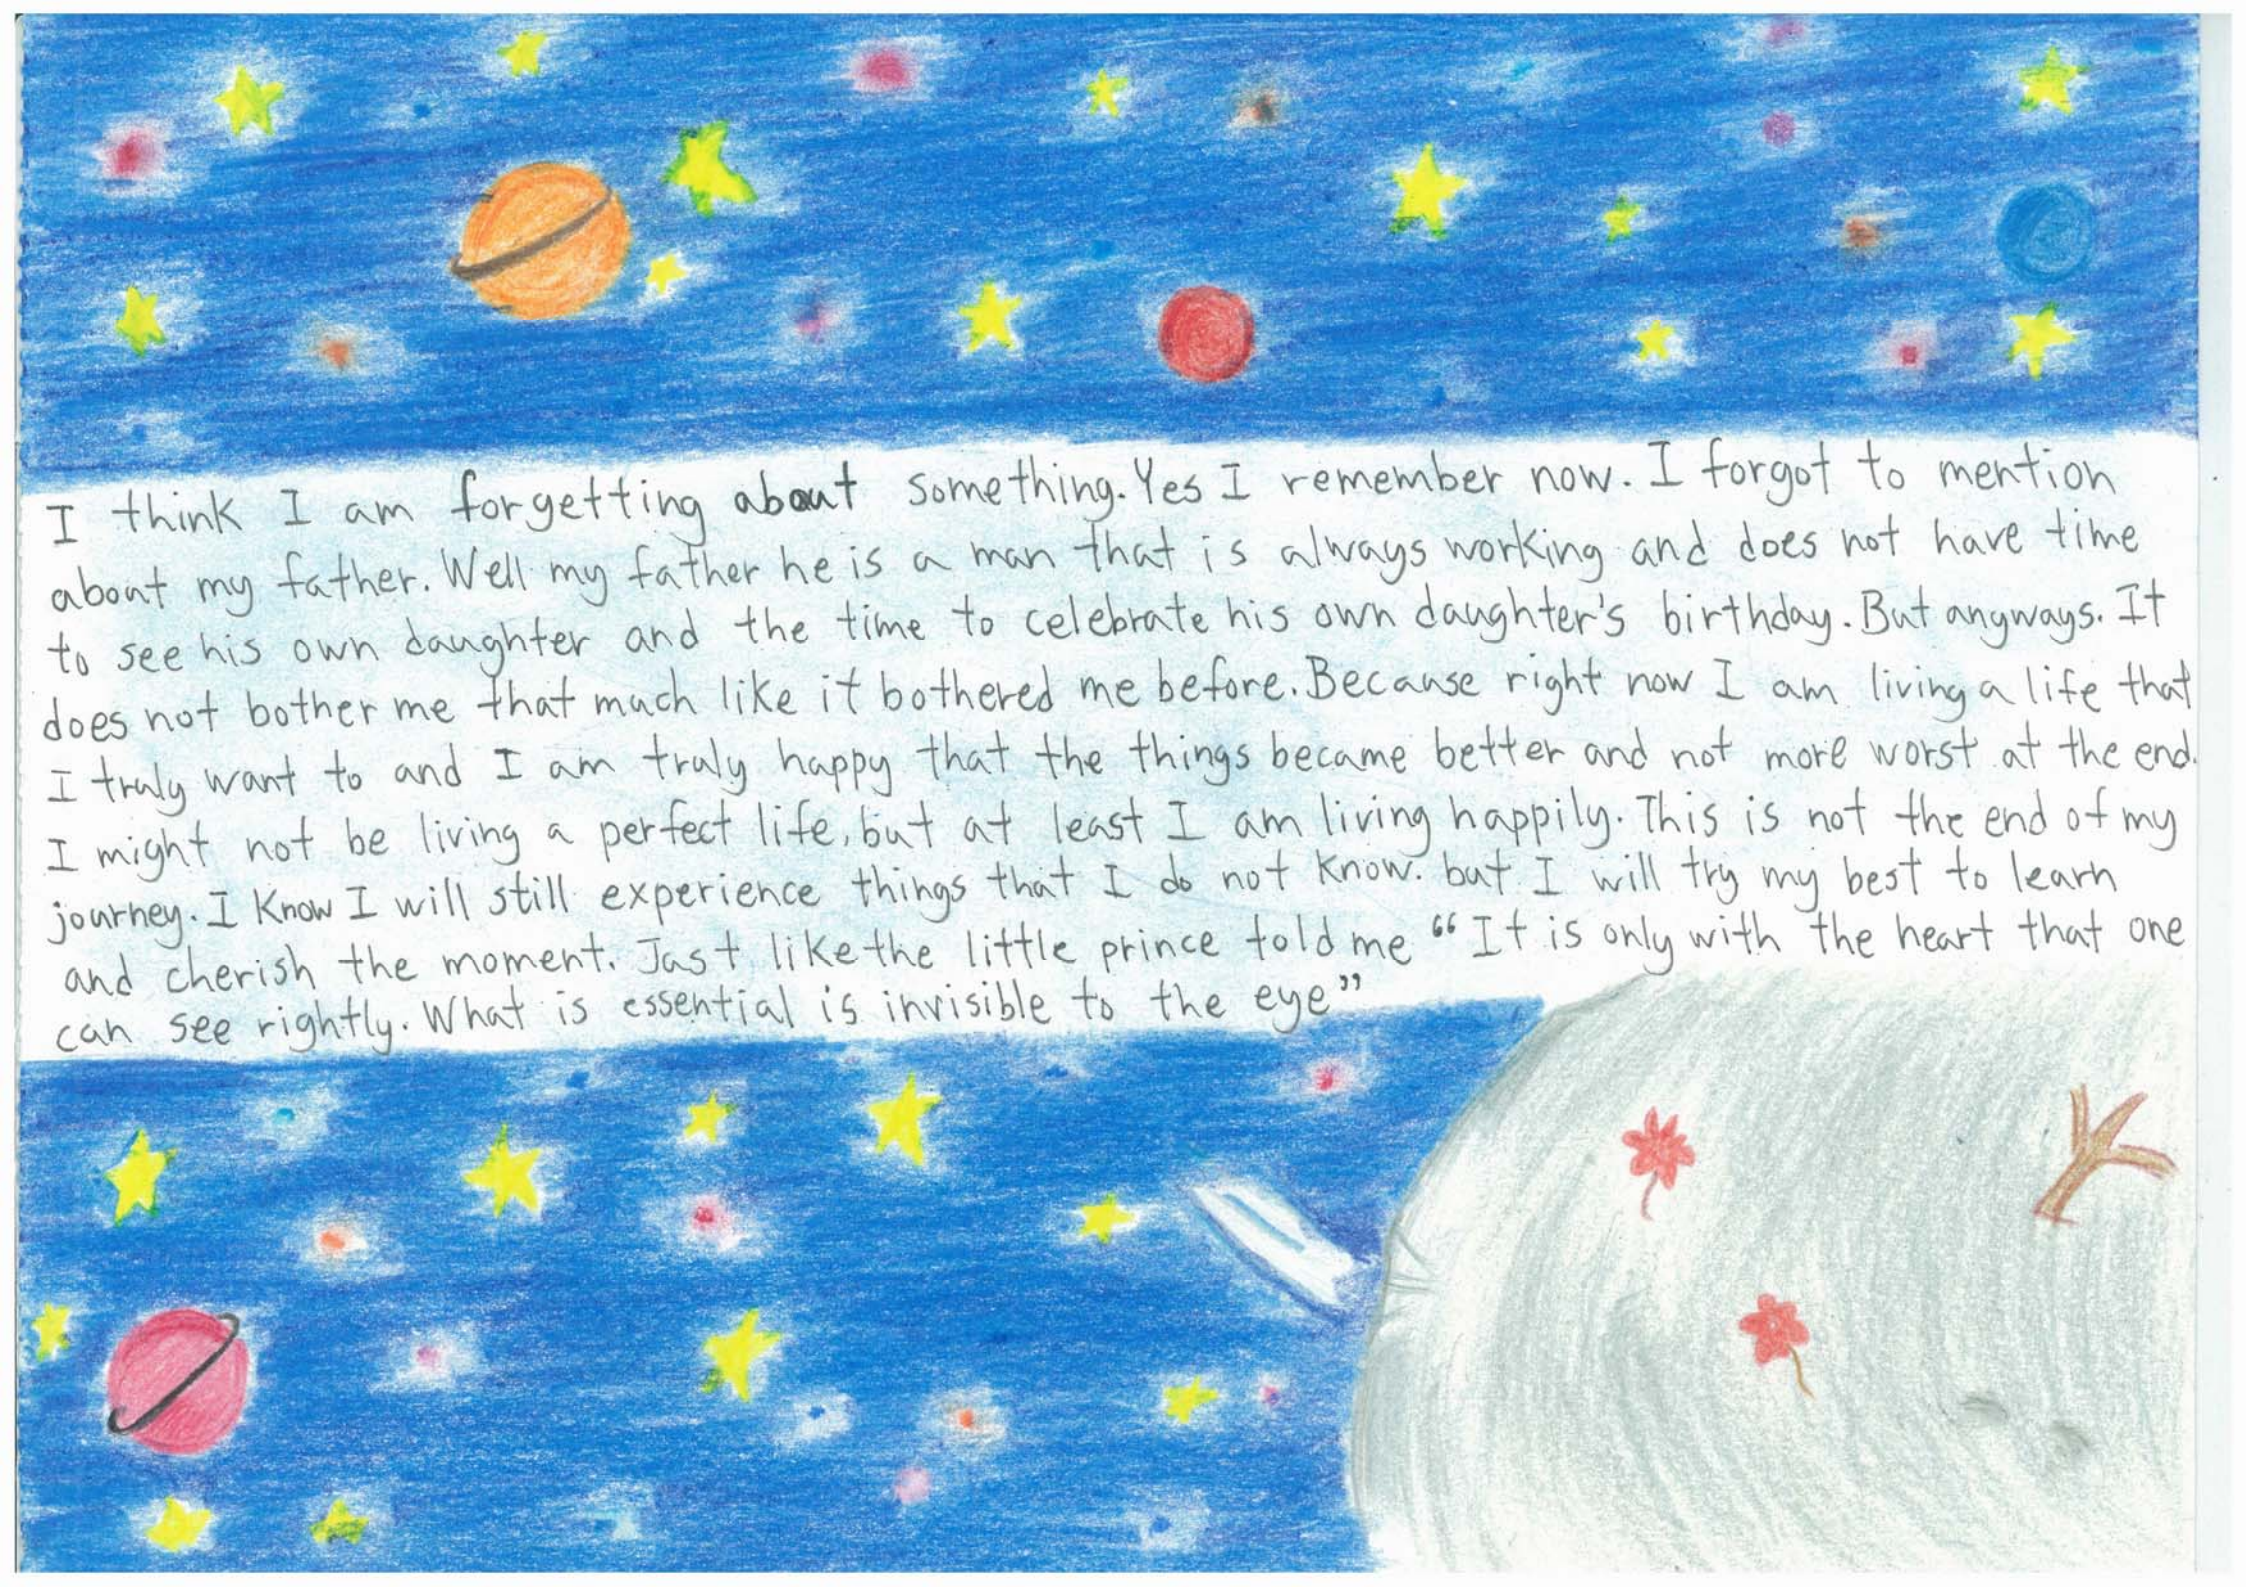

The little prince did not want to bother him so he went to visit the next Asteroid B 328. The businessman. The businessman was staring at the sky. Adoring those beautiful stars instead of counting them. Which made the little prince curious about why he was not counting the stars. The businessman told him that it was no use owning the stars. Because he knew the truth that he never was the stars owner. Just a man who liked to count them. Well now he's just a man who adored the stars.

The next place he visited was Asteroid B 329. The lamplighter. The lamplighter was still doing the usual thing he does. He was lighting the lamp at sunset. The little prince admired him because the effort this grown-up puts into being faithful to his orders. The lamplighter was happy to see the little prince. The lamplighter handed the lighter to the little prince to try to light the lamp. The little prince did not know how to light the lamp. So the lamplighter taught him. He did a good job. The lamplighter praised him.

And last but not the least he went to Asteroid B 330. It was the geographer. He was sitting on his desk and his thick book was shut. He was just sitting there and thinking deeply. The little prince went closer to his desk, but he did not even notice until he spoke to him. The little prince was concerned. The geographer told him that he was tired of waiting for explorers to come to his planet and bring him information. He wanted to be the explorer. So the little prince suggested him to visit Earth. Because that planet taught him many useful things. The planet that made him realize how important his rose is. The planet was a really good reputation.

I think I am forgetting about something. Yes I remember now. I forgot to mention about my father. Well my father he is a man that is always working and does not have time to see his own daughter and the time to celebrate his own daughter's birthday. But anyways. It does not bother me that much like it bothered me before. Because right now I am living a life that I truly want to and I am truly happy that the things became better and not more worst at the end. I might not be living a perfect life, but at least I am living happily. This is not the end of my journey. I know I will still experience things that I do not know. but I will try my best to learn and cherish the moment. Just like the little prince told me "It is only with the heart that one can see rightly. What is essential is invisible to the eye"
